On June 12, 2018, 22-year-old Marquees Alston was shot and killed by DC police. Now two years later, his mother filed a 100-million dollar lawsuit against the District. Police say they shot Alston after he first fired at them from an alley way. Kenithia Alston, Marquees Alston's mother, rejects the police version and has requested the release of the officers' body-worn camera footage.
